Russ Price Cape Image Center Portrait Packages

The creation fee is the whole process of photographing your portrait. It starts with an initial consultation, whether it is in person at our studio, or over the phone. We discuss what your main goal is for having the portrait made, and what you would like as the end product. Also, we discuss the location where we will create the portraits. Your choices are my Image Center Studio, at the beach, your home, or my water fall garden. Then we select a day that is convenient for your family and reserve a portrait session date. (There is a $100. retainer deposit to hold a portrait session date. The balance is due on the portrait day).

During the portrait creation, I make many poses and combinations of the subjects. The large group portrait is usually the focal point. The each family unit is made, and then I try the kids together and alone. The result is a collection of images that will give you a nice selection.

The portrait viewing and ordering session is next, at the Image Center. I project all the images on a large high—definition TV screen, and present the images one by one. After narrowing the selection down to the ‘best of’, I can zoom in on the faces to check expressions, make any image black and white, and show your favorites at different sizes. Then you will make your pose selections for wall décor and gift prints. I will help you to order the appropriate sizes and suggest some in black and white, if you desire. The print order is then retouched, color balanced and custom printed by our professional photo lab. They use the best papers and processing equipment to make archival, perfect prints.

There are many additional products I offer to properly present your portraits: Framing, Canvas Textured Paper, Your photos turned into Portrait Paintings, Image Collages, Framed Story Collections, Storybook Albums, Miniature Canvas with easels, Panel Frames with multiple matted images, Digital Image Frames, Black and White Art Prints.
